Dear Matt,

I'm now in India with my friend Theo. It's cool here in winter. The weather is just lovely. Yesterday, we were on a train for about seven hours. It was very crowded on the train, and we didn't have a seat. But you know what? A man and his son gave their seats to us. They were so kind. Also, Theo and I bought bags in a shop near our hotel. Theo's is big, and mine is blue and small. I bought one for you as a gift, too. Maybe we can take a trip here together next year. India is a really beautiful place.

Your friend,
Evans

Hazel works at Pandora's Closet. Here is part of her work report for this month.

Dresses and rings were very popular this month because they were on sale for Mother's Day. The sales of dresses and rings all went up. They together made up half of the total sales this month. On the other hand, the sales of thick socks this month went down from 6% to 3% of the total sales. We will start selling the socks at half price. We will move the socks to a different place, so people might see them when they are at the checkout. During the summer sale, they will not be on the racks. So we are trying to sell them all before the summer sale.

On the first day of this month, we took sweaters and coats off the racks. But we still need more racks for the summer sale. Maybe we can move the jeans to the racks at the back. The summer sale will start in July. All the T-shirts and shorts for women, men, and kids will be on sale.

In Kenya, life as a girl or woman is difficult. They can only follow their fathers or husbands. Many girls can't go to school, and men decide everything for them. When men hit them, they can't even ask others for help.

However, this village in Kenya is different. People call it Umoja. The girls and women here are happy. They make beautiful things and sell them to tourists. Only women and their kids live and work here. Men can visit the village, but they can't sleep here. In Umoja, women make the rules, not men. In 1990, Rebecca Lolosoli and 15 other women started Umoja. They wanted to build a safe place for the women and kids. They also built a school in the village. Every girl can go to school here.

Later, Umoja became famous around the country. More and more women and girls came to the village. Some left Umoja and started more villages like Umoja for women. They all have one hope: One day in Kenya, everything will be different. Women will not need to listen to men, and they can be their own boss.
